Hurricane Isaias is approaching the northern Gulf Coast and may affect transportation throughout the region. Customers with shipments moving to, from, or through affected areas should prepare for possible delays in pickup, delivery, and transit.

The safety of our drivers, employees, and customers remains our priority. Service schedules may be adjusted as weather and road conditions require.

If you are affected by the storm and to help us respond to your shipping needs, please:

- Notify your FFE representative of any facility closures or changes to shipping and receiving hours.
- Review time-sensitive shipments with your representative and allow additional transit times where possible.

You can also check shipment status through the FFE customer portal.

Thank you for your continued partnership. For those in the path of the hurricane, please stay safe!

For additional information, please contact your local service center or sales representative.
